BIG FIRE LOSS. NEW YORK AND CHICAGO TODAY

Street Cars Burned in Chicago Barn; Dock Fire in N. Y.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Jan. 26.—Fire seriously damaged the Devon Ave. car barn, of the Chicago Surface Lines here early today, destroyed 100 street cars and fired many houses nearby. Wellington Fish, general manager of the Surface Lines, said the loss would be approximately $1,500,000.

Two hundred other street cars were saved when, with the motive power automatically shut off, they were coupled together and hauled from the barn by motor trucks.

Gasoline stored in the barn caused numerous explosions. Sparks fired roofs on a score of cottages, but these small blazes were quickly extinguished. Windows in 30 homes were shattered by the intense heat.

The barn is bounded by Clark street and Ravenswood, Devon and Arthur avenues.

New York, Jan. 26.—Fire which broke out at 6:20 o'clock this morning in the plant of Morse Drydock and Repair company in Brooklyn, threatened half an hour later to sweep through the section of water front covered by the company's structures. At that time, four big shops and a ship in dry dock were burning, and the fire had spread to a nearby building occupied by a contracting firm. Property owned by the Brooklyn Union Gas company was menaced. The Morse Company's plant is one of the largest of its kind in the east.

The fire originated in a garage and spread so rapidly the firemen could not control it before a large acetylene tank exploded, which spread the fire over a large area.

An oil tanker owned by the Standard Oil Company caught fire shortly before 7 o'clock.

Six alarms, calling fire companies from virtually all over Brooklyn, had been turned in by that hour.

The great plant occupies six blocks along the Brooklyn waterfront and the fire wiped out five shop buildings, causing a loss estimated at $200,000 and upwards, before being brought under control.

The blaze started in the company's garage and destroyed 50 automobiles.

The floating dry dock, said to be the largest in the world, caught fire, but was extinguished. The tanker S. M. Spaulding from Los Angeles was in the dock.

U. S. Favors Genoa Conference—Later

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Jan. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Indications were given in official circles today that the United States is adverse to participation in a general European economic conference, should such a meeting be called at the time set for the Geneva gathering, but would look with more favor on a conference to be held at a later date.

The Geneva meeting, it was asserted, would be in position to obtain more satisfactory results, in the opinion of some government officials, if more time were given for conditions in Europe to stabilize.

WHAT IS NEWS? Students of Columbia University Give Their Views

By Associated Press Leased Wire
New York, Jan. 26.—Newspapers, and what they should publish, have long been a puzzle to the layman, but a class of budding journalists at Columbia has reduced the question to cold figures. One hundred embryo Horace Greeleys have passed on the question of what news really is, and the result is interesting.

Four prefer to read scandal, while 20 dislike it; 29 prefer politics and 3 find sport news beneficial; 25 like news from foreign lands, while 3 don't; 14 are partial to the dramatic section of the newspaper and not one would wish it deleted; sports are read by 14 students, four would as soon the sport department were omitted; 8 delight in criminal news, 16 deplore its publication; economic news is a favorite by 8 to 2; finance takes the short end by a 4 to 13 vote; social news is read by 4 and scorned by 9; legal news meets the same fate on a basis of 2 to 13.

Thirty-six of the students say they choose what to read by what the headlines said; 27 judged the desirability of news by the department in which it appeared. Eighteen of the future journalists believe in creating public opinion; 21 that newspapers followed public opinion; 13 that the papers both led and followed.

Sixty-eight percent of the class agreed that newspapers promote public welfare.

Thirty percent of the class were "casual" readers of advertising, with clothing and department store ads in the lead.

PRESIDENT ACTS TO BRING CHINA AND JAPAN PACT

Makes Direct Move in Appeal to China Delegation.

Washington, Jan. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—The Shantung controversy had been brought under the spotlight today through President Harding's direct move to bring Japan and China together on the issue that now appears to be the only serious obstacle to a speedy conclusion of the whole range of arms conference negotiations.

The result of the President's appeal to Minister Tse of the Chinese delegation that China accept the latest compromise offer on the Tsingtao Railroad issue, appeared today to hinge largely on the attitude of Peking.

Acceptance by the Japanese delegates of the renewed offer of "good offices" by Secretary Hughes and Arthur J. Balfour, hitherto declined, was understood to have opened the way for the President's move to secure Chinese acceptance of the compromise plan sponsored by those officials.

While a decision was awaited on the Shantung controversy, the conference virtually suspended its other activities, a proposed meeting of the far eastern committee, being postponed until tomorrow because there was nothing to discuss pending a Shantung settlement.

After the impressive ceremony the casket was transferred to the crypt in the left lateral nave near the entrance to St. Peter's, last absolution was given and Benedict XV was left to his rest beneath the flagstones which are trod by thousands of pilgrims annually.

Rome, Jan. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—Final preparations went forward this morning for the entombment of Pope Benedict XV. The ceremony was to begin at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at noon the huge bronze doors of St. Peter's swung shut, excluding the public from the vast basilica until after the funeral.

All the morning a seemingly endless stream of humanity flowed past the bier in the basilica where the body lay, and the scenes of the last three days were repeated except that the crowd seeking admittance to the cathedral was greater, if anything, than before. Churchmen, pilgrims and laymen mingled in the mass that strove to gain admittance in time to get a glimpse of the dead pontiff.

Breaking the shuffling of feet inside the basilica, was the sound of hammers, as workmen built the catafalque on which the body was to be borne in the funeral procession.

Masses in All Churches

High masses were planned in virtually all the churches in Rome simultaneously with the solemn and impressive service in St. Peter's, which will be held in the strictest privacy. Those attending are limited to the cardinals, members of the pontifical household, diplomats accredited to the Vatican, and members of the papal nobility.

Cardinals continue to arrive in Rome and it is expected that at least 30 will participate in the burial service. Cardinal Mercier of Belgium may not arrive in time for the funeral ceremonies, but the Italian members of the sacred college will be here with the exception of Cardinal Prisco, archbishop of Naples. Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, is here being the first foreign cardinal not in the curia to arrive.

Benedict will be buried in a crypt beneath the floor of the basilica, near the right of the entrance to the cathedral, the body being enclosed in three caskets, the inner of cypress, the middle of lead and the outer one of polished hardwood.

Chicago Man Claims Car Found in Dixon

William and John Trinen, of Chicago, came to Dixon this morning with letters from Chief Fitzmorris of the police department of that city to Chief Van Bibber, claiming the Ford touring car which was found by the Dixon police Sunday morning abandoned at the foot of Madison avenue, Chicago, and he being unable to come to Dixon sent the two young men to bring the car back.

The car was taken Friday, according to Lahner's letter to Chief Van Bibber, by a nephew and he has not been seen or heard from since. The police learned that the car was driven up to the foot of Madison avenue Saturday morning about 9 o'clock, two men abandoning the car and taking packages, walked east along the switch tracks. The car was somewhat damaged and the necessary repairs were made and the machine driven back to Chicago this afternoon.

Jails Don't Worry This Young Fellow

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Joliet, Ill., Jan. 26.—It's just as easy to get out of a reform school as a prison, according to Charles Marden, now lodging in a jail at Morris near here.

He was arrested for having a stolen automobile in his possession and told Sheriff Mack of Grundy county yesterday that he didn't care where he was sentenced to.

"Any jail doesn't worry me," he said. "When you're in jail all you have to do is to eat and sleep. If you want to get out, you can do it, either through parole or over the walls."

ADVERSE BALANCE IN FOOD SUPPLY FACES PEOPLE OF AMERICA

Industry Taking Dominant Lead Govt. Expert Declares.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Winding up the program of formal addresses at this morning's session, the national agricultural conference was expected to prepare for consideration of the committee reports and resolution. It was thought possible that some of the committee resolutions might be taken up by the conference late today.

Recommendations covering an intermediate credit system to provide farmers with working capital already have been drafted by the committee assigned to this problem. Little opposition to its report is anticipated, since President Harding and virtually every other speaker before the conference has suggested such a program to relieve the present situation of the producers.

Certain delegations who favor endorsement by the conference of the activities of the "agricultural bloc" in congress were understood today to be still undecided whether to introduce such a resolution.

Reduction of freight rates on farm products and products of allied industries, and sharing by both railroad corporations and labor of "deflation" of charges now affecting all industries, was recommended in the railway transportation sub-committee report prepared early today for submission to the transportation committee of the conference.

Railroads Should Share

The committee declared that labor should not carry the whole reduction, but the railroads should take their share, saying the railroads made $600,000,000 profit last year, when farmers lost $7,000,000,000.

The committee also recommended withdrawal by congress of authority to the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix valuation of real estate held by railroads at more than its actual cost or more than the value of similar adjoining lands in making up the capital account of the railroads.

Adverse Food Balance

The United States is approaching a condition of adverse food balance and must decide whether to retain a proper ratio between agricultural and industry or to permit the latter to take a dominant lead at the expense of the former, Dr. E. D. Ball, director declared in an address before the conference. The nation's balance between the two fields of endeavor will be lost, he warned, unless the tendency toward industrial dominance is made one of the major problems for national consideration.

If American agriculture is to succeed in competition with the skill, natural resources, and cheaper labor of other countries, "we must depend

Man Arrested Here on Wife's Complaint

Edwin Rose, a brick mason, who has been working at the Dixon state colony, was arrested by Officer Harry Jones last evening, and is being held for the Davenport, Iowa, authorities on a charge of wife abandonment. The Davenport police called upon the Dixon officers late yesterday afternoon furnishing them with a description of Rose and asking that he be picked up and held.

When he was arrested last evening, Rose told the police that he had been contributing to his wife's support regularly, sending her money last week. When this information was communicated to the Davenport police, they stated that Mrs. Rose had filed information in the Scott county court and that a warrant had been issued for his arrest. An officer has been sent to Dixon to take Rose back to Davenport, Rose assuring the Iowa officials that he would return without extradition papers.

ONE BANDIT KILLED; FOUR ARRESTED LAST NIGHT IN CRIME WAVE

Chicago Reports $15,000 Loot of Thieves During Last Night.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—When the police checked up on last night's crime list today they found that one bandit had been killed, four had been arrested, property valued at approximately $15,000 had been obtained in a dozen burglaries and holdups, and a ticket agent had been shot in the wrist as he drove off two thugs.

Albe Thornton, said to have been arrested many times, was shot and fatally injured when he attempted to steal an automobile tire from the automobile of C. J. Brister, vice president of the New York Central Railroad. Thornton was detected removing the tire and after a thrilling pursuit, which was witnessed by hundreds of persons, apparently gained freedom by leaping on a street car. He had been shot, however, and was found by patrolmen who were notified by a physician that a man with a bullet wound had called for treatment. He died in a hospital.

Get "Four Black Knights"

Four negroes, known to the police as "the four black knights" and believed to be the ones who for two months have been conducting hold-ups and robberies and obtaining in their lawless pursuits approximately $25,000 worth of loot, were arrested at their rendezvous by the police who have been on their trail for three weeks. They have been identified, the police say by some of their victims.

Conrad Dice, a ticket agent for the elevated lines, was ordered to hand over the money in his cage by two holdup men, but instead of complying he rang an alarm and ordered the men away. As they were leaving, one fired at him, the bullet lodging in his right wrist.

Women's wearing apparel valued at $10,000; clothing and other stock valued at $4000 and half a dozen banknotes taken from pedestrians and totalling about $1000 were taken in a dozen minor holdups and robberies.

An hour after Dr. S. Zwick had been robbed of $100 in a drug store last night, his wife, Mrs. Lillian Zwick, was held up in another drug store by the same bandits and robbed of two diamond rings.

PAUL LOST HIS FIGHT; PAPERS OF EXTRADITION

Must Return to Minne- sota to Answer Accusation.

(Special to The Telegraph.)
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—Governor Small today honored the requisition of the governor of Minnesota for the return to St. Paul of Michael D. Paul, who is under arrest in Dixon. Paul is charged with the abandonment of his daughter, Evelyn, aged 12 years.

Paul was brought to this city Monday by Sheriff John Hayes of Freeport and Judge F. J. Stransky in the circuit court granted a writ for habeas corpus filed by Judge Clarity of Freeport, who represents Paul. The prisoner was immediately rearrested by Sheriff Frank Schoenholtz on a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice, and his failure to furnish bonds in the sum of $1,000, resulted in his being locked up in the county jail. The St. Paul authorities are expected this evening with the necessary papers to take Paul back home.

New Regulations in Wrestling Bout Are Pronounced Success

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Jan. 26.—Chicago sport enthusiasts today analyzed the first American wrestling match held under the rules providing for 10-minute rounds, following the contest last night in which Johnny Meyers retained the middleweight wrestling championship by throwing John Kilbons in the fourth round.

The 6,000 spectators approved the method of conducting the match and newspaper comment today was favorable, indicating that the experiment had proved a success.

There was much of the accompaniment to the scene that recalled a boxing bout. Seconds were parked in the contestants' corners and they pushed the stool through the ropes at the end of each round, produced the towel and wielded the sponge with the same alacrity that characterizes the activities of the principals' assistants in a fistie encounter. To add to the resemblance, the gong rang at the opening and closing of each round.

A new way of writing a story of a wrestling match also came into vogue when the morning papers described the contest "by rounds."

E. R. Mrs. McCleary reported that there were five organizations at the present time co-operating with her by making over cast-off garments after they had been laundered. It was decided that the Dixon Associated Charities would have all day meetings every Wednesday to which all the women in the city are invited to aid in the making over of discarded all other civic and fraternal organizations through their welfare committees report to this organization any case for charity brought to their attention.

HARDING'S EARS MUST HAVE BEEN HOT LAST NIGHT

Senator Lodge Prob- ably Experience Sensation Also.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Dayton, O., Jan. 26.—Breaking his silence of more than a year James M. Cox, democratic candidate for president in 1920, at a Jackson Day banquet here last night, took to task the Washington administration both on its domestic and foreign policies. In this criticism he was aided by United States Senators Pomeroy of Ohio and Harrison of Mississippi, and Mrs. Margaret Fuller of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Cox asserted that by resort to the noisy methods of a circus. "Attributing the distress in Russia to socialism, the former democratic standard bearer said the distress in America is due "to the treachery of Lodgeism."

Speaking of the four power pacific agreement, Mr. Cox asserted that "prudence might suggest that judgment be reserved until we know what the treaty means and the extent of Mr. Lodge's secret understandings." He declared that Senator Lodge has declared that the "real meaning was in the unwritten words."

The former Governor made it plain that he stands today on the League of Nations as he stood during the 1920 campaign, declaring "we stand in our very tracks, just where we were when the votes were counted. We have not retreated a step. The flag still flies and we are ready for the next fight."

Gives Facts About New Little Planet

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Buenos Aires, Jan. 26.—Dr. Hartmann, director of the La Plata Observatory, says that the orbit of the little planet he discovered on Nov. 4, in the constellation of Cetus, lies between the orbits of the planets Jupiter and Mars. The orbit is elliptical and is covered in five years and seven months. It has the considerable eccentricity of 0.272.

As the plane of the orbit is very much inclined in regard to the earth's equator, the new planet can approach the poles closer than most of the other planets.

The little world may be observed from the end of this year until the fall of 1923 in a very northern position, most favorable for observations from the northern hemisphere.

The diameter of the globe is estimated at barely 25 kilometers (about 15 1/2 miles) as its brilliancy taken at the last observation appeared to be of the fifteenth magnitude.

Ratio of Married Men Has Increased

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Washington, Jan. 26.—The proportion of married men to the total male population of the country fifteen years of age and over, increased from 55.8 percent to 59.2 percent in the 10 years preceding the 1920 census, according to a compilation of marital statistics made public today, by the census bureau.

The bureau believed, however, that this was probably more indicative of a change in the age composition of the population—an increase in the percentage of males between fifteen and 25 years of age due to increased immigration—than a growing propensity to matrimony.

The divorce total showed an increase of 20 percent in its ratio to the total population during the 10 year period, constituting six tenths of one percent of the latter against five tenths in 1910.

Virginia Professor Made 'Cheerful' Find

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Bristol, Va., Jan. 26.—The finding of approximately 800 human skeletons in a cave in the mountains near here was reported today by Professor Henry Woodman of this city. The bones were in a cone shaped heap, about 30 feet high and 80 feet in diameter at the base. Prof. Woodman stated, and are thought to be those of Indians. Tomahawks and beads also were found in the cave, which Prof. Woodman thinks was the burial ground of Indians several centuries ago. Archaeologists from the several colleges in this section are planning to make a thorough investigation of the cave.

COWGIRL WON SUCCESS BY HITCHING WAGON TO STAR

MISS MARY MCCORMICK.

BY ROY GIBBONS.

Chicago.—When it comes to hitting a crescendo of high, knocking the spots off a bull's eye with a revolver at 50 paces, or lassoing a steer during roundup season—

Miss Mary McCormick, cowgirl soprano attached to Mary Garden's Opera Company here, can do one and all with equal ease.

She's 22 and first saw life on a ranch in Belleville, Ark., in a typical wild and woolly spot of the old west. Her family moved up and down the prairie towns during girlhood and Mary's voice attracted considerable attention from cowpunchers who used to coax her to sing ballads.

Worked Through College.

She graduated into a church choir and then ambition to become famous as a singer dawned one day when she was awarded a prize for rendering "Throw Out the Life Line."

Following this Mary came to Chicago and remained undiscovered for nearly three years while working her way through Northwestern university conservatory of music by clerking in a department store.

But she never forgot her ambition to become famous—and saw golden opportunity in the person of Mary Garden, whom she followed about so persistently for six months that Mary, more to be rid of her, agreed upon a trial.

And the trial proved her making.

Debut Big Success.

Miss Garden was completely surprised when she discovered the power and beauty of Mary's voice and had her placed under private tutors as her special protege.

Then came the debut as Micaela in "Carmen."

Chicago went wild with applause and appreciation.

"I did it by simply hitching my wagon, as they say, to a star, and never transferred," says Miss McCormick.

LIVE NEWS FROM DEMENTTOWN

Always Fresh and Wholesome "A LIVE TOWN OF OUR OWN"

"It's not much to say for a man that he never had an enemy. You could write that over a cabbage head. It would be appropriate in an essay on mush, or in a panegyric on putty. It makes a first-class epitaph over the grave of an ox. If you never did anything to make anybody mad at you, you have been called a man merely through courtesy. You should apply for a place as dummy in the window of a clothing store."

Jan. 26.—Sun rose at 7:21, and will set at 5:05 o'clock.

Francine Larrimore says:

"If you have a calico pocketbook, it is your business to wear calico, but if you are interested in retaining the attention of your husband, you will stand in line at some bargain counter until your hat is awry and your temper lost, but you will stand there until you find a pretty piece of pink calico. It's no disgrace to wear calico but it is distressing to have a plain blue calico suit."

Dr. C. A. Robbins was on the Avenue this morning—to Chicago.

Harry Reitzell also—to Chicago.

Clifford Hatch, of Decatur, who was here several days visiting his mother, was an Avenue visitor this morning. He was on his way to Rockford.

Dr. R. L. Baird was a visitor. He boarded an eastbound train.

Bill Miller, of Sterling, was with us again. Trautman being away, things were very quiet this morning.

KEENAN HERE.

Charles Keenan and wife, of Colorado, were with us this morning. They have been visiting relatives and friends here for several days. They were on their way to Aurora. Charley will be remembered as a former pitcher for the Dixon Stars. Charley's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Keenan of East Seventh street.

(CONTRIBUTED)

Frank Stephan is walking more peaceful today as he was seen coming out of a neighbor's house with a pail of soft water. Frank has been complaining about the size of his water bill of late, anybody would with feet of that size.

Agent Wood was a passenger to Chicago this morning.

It is said that the I. N. U. are contemplating removing the bricks from the pavement of the Avenue—the bricks are in the road. You got it didn't you?

Henry Leydig was with us again this morning—he went to Forrester on business.

William Hiller, bookkeeper for the Dixon Casket Company, has gone to East St. Louis where he will spend the week-end with his parents.

"But as Mark Twain said, everything is equally divided in this world. Skirts are shorter and looks are longer. The rich have ice in summer and the poor have it in the winter. The rich man has the Twin Six and the poor man the six twins."

Where is Bennie O'Malley? He was not seen at the Seagren Inn last evening.

The Public Supply Co. bought 2000 bushels of corn Wednesday. "Bud is looking for cars."

We were honored with the presence of a Sterling police officer this morning. Officer Sharop Amsbaugh came up to have a visit with his old friend, John Hettler. The men got well acquainted when Hettler lived in Sterling.

We have signed a contract with Committee McIntyre for a series of articles on Domestic Science. The first of these will soon appear.

Curtis Rice visited the Avenue folk Wednesday afternoon.

HOPES

Though wintry winds blow cold and drear
Across the bleak, bare ways,
I know spring waits on anxious feet
The luring, gladness days.

So, too, when clouds of gloom and doubt
Oppress and shadow one,
I know that sometime through the clouds
The star of Faith I'll see.

DIXON DELPHIAN CHAPTER MEETING

The Dixon Delphian Chapter met Tuesday evening at 7:30.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. McWethy, followed by roll call by Miss McPeen.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Following a short business session, the lesson for the evening was begun. This concerned the Story of Early Rome and was in charge of Mrs. Ballou.

The several reports were: Italy and its Settlements; Rome and its Legends; Inheritance from Regal Rome; Political Struggles; Conquest of Rome's Neighbors; Conquest of Italy, and Politics and Government.

The lesson being over Mrs. Louise Steele gave a short talk on her visit to St. Peter's, Rome. She had two very fine pictures with her. One was the Parthenon, a very magnificent structure in colors, and the other of St. Peter's, showing the Vatican, fountain, Sistine Chapel, Cleopatra's Needle and the Square of St. Peter.

Miss Pratt gave a few incidents which took place during her visit in Rome, also.

Following this very interesting meeting a motion was made to adjourn.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 14th, Mrs. Ballou having charge of the program. All Delphians are urged to be present.

ACCESS TO THE SEA

The favorable report of the international commission on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway project gives new impetus to an understanding which is of more direct importance to the development of the whole United States than is the Panama Canal. The commission finds the plan entirely feasible from an engineering standpoint, vastly useful as a transportation measure and comparatively inexpensive. It is also convinced that the United States and Canada can and should carry out the plan jointly.

Not the least satisfying part of the report is the assurance of the commission that all of the cost can be made up out of profits from the water power developed incidentally. That would make the increased transportation facilities a clear gain, while the hydro-electric power that would pay for the canal would at the same time prove an immense saving of coal and other fuels.

Eighteen states, the whole middle west group, are supporting this project. They represent, in general, the section which profits least by the Panama canal. The eastern and western seaboard and the states immediately adjacent to them are now reaping rich industrial and commercial advantages from the "big ditch."
The middle west wants a big ditch of its own, for access to tidewater, making Atlantic seaports of the thriving cities on the Great Lakes, and,
eventually, on the upper Mississippi,
all this ultimately to be of benefit to eastern seaports through increase in general prosperity of the country, instead of being detrimental to any section.

New York alone opposes it. New York having gathered to herself most of the continent's Atlantic shipping, naturally wants to retain it, and looks with jealous eye on any plan seeming to lessen her business, even if only temporarily. But one city or state will hardly be allowed to stand long in the way of an improvement that is desirable from the national viewpoint.
Transportation follows the line of least resistance in the long run, and economic law rather than local interest must determine such questions.
There is nothing to prevent New York state from deepening its barge canal to accommodate ocean going steamers, and win out in fair competition with the St. Lawrence route, if, as New Yorkers insist, their city is the natural port for foreign trade.

THE TWENTY-FOOT ROAD

The twenty-foot road as a minimum for main American highways is one of the propositions favored at the road builders convention in Chicago, instead of the eighteen-foot road to which the Illinois highway commission only recently increased this state's standard. It is only one of three major important recommendations made at the gathering, but it is especially deserving of attention. What is more, the policy of ample width should not be confined to the main road, but should include almost every surface paved, for in these days to include it in the heavy-traveled class.
The narrow road is costly in original construction for the service that it renders. Naturally it wears out faster than the wider thoroughfare.
The wear on vehicle is greater because of the continual dropping off into the ruts or rubble at the side in turning out. It is dangerous because of traffic congestion. Sooner or later it has to be widened, and experience has proved that this costs more than it would have cost to build the road
wide enough at the start.
The very building of a road presupposes growth and is done to encourage it. Yet too often those who direct the highway policies are lost in the vision of length and forget the other great essential to safe and free traffic upon any road—width.

HAYNES FIGURES DRY GAINS

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes
seems to have been taking a sort of booze census. How he obtained his figures is his own secret, but the results announced speak for themselves.
According to Haynes, there were 20,000,000 people in the United States who drank before the country was voted dry, and now there are only 2,500,000. Of this number, he says, about 1,500,000 only take a drink now and then—presumably when some friend offers them one—so that the regular drinkers are reduced to 1, 000,000. These, the commissioner confesses, drink as much as ever, or more; but even so, the total amount of liquor consumed is only 5 per cent of what it used to be.

This liquor costs five times as much per quart as it used to. The total amount drunk up last year is considered to have been worth $500,- 000,000 at current valuation. It is a good deal to spend for booze in a dry year. Still, it represents an impressive saving. The nation's booze bill used to be $2,500,000,000 a year.
And in spite of the deadly effects present-day booze is having on its victims, the death rate of the nation
as a whole is said to have decreased nearly one per cent last year from temperance alone.

Much is made of the failure of prohibition to prohibit and of the unfortunate results of the present system.
Granting all its defects, we may still find a gain of 17,500,000 teetotalers,
a saving of $2,000,000,000 and a lowering of the death rate—a considerable achievement for one year.

JUNGLE JAZZ

A jungle jazz band entertains visitors at the Selig Zoo, Los Angeles. The players are three chimpanzees.

They sit on chairs, Mike strumming the guitar, Bill picking at the mandolin with his head cocked to one side. Mary handling the violin, is the band leader. They hold their instruments naturally, with the skill of humans.

There's much debate, whether the discord shattered out by the monkeys is really jazz. Some music critics, opposed to jazz, insist that it sounds like the real thing.

Consul, most intelligent monkey of our generation, used to dress himself, even to lacing shoes and tying a four in hand. He ate with a knife and fork, shaved himself, steered an auto
and even signed his name with a pen.

But Consul, like the monkey jazz players, was entirely an imitator.
First a man has to do a thing, with the monkey watching. Then the monkey copies.

Man, of all creatures, alone has the power of reasoning, making decisions, originating. All men have this power. Few develop it.

People are of two kinds—the creators and the imitators or followers.
It is human nature to go along doing a thing in the old accepted way.

Occasionally a person with a creative brain challenges the old way. He starts in motion that greatest machine, the human brain. Presently he creates a new invention, a new theory
or a short cut way for the old laborious process.

Such men are more valuable to civilization than millions of imitators contented with going ahead in the old
rut. For instance, Edison, Watt, Whitney and Steinmetz.

Study the careers of these and other creative geniuses and it becomes obvious that the real contributor to progress is the person who discards
the old and devises something new and better to take its place.

All people have, within them, the power to create new and better things. The trouble is, it is more comfortable to go ahead in the old way.

The brain can make a success of any one if it is spurred on by the great driving force, will power, instead of allowed to grow rusty and stagnant.
The current is in the head, waiting to be turned on to higher voltage.

CUBISTS

New York has an exhibition of the most advanced art—"cubist crayonism," from Russia. The pictures look like an explosion in a paint factory.

Sympathetic critics describe this
"art" as "characteristic extensions of the artist's restless artistic consciousness."

That will make oculists grin. They know that cubist and futurist artists merely have diseases of the eyes, usually nystagmus. They paint life as they see it—distorted. Even Puvion de Lavannes needed spectacles.

POWER

Only 9,000,000 barrels of oil left underground in America, reports the Geological Survey. That will last 18 years at the rate oil is being used up now.

Auto owners need not worry. Almost unlimited supplies of oil lie in western beds of shale rock. Cheap methods of extracting it will be devised when necessary and profitable.

Gasoline will soon be a back number. Another decade or two and auto and airplane engines will be run by

OBSTACLES

Pekoe, chow dog, got lost, far from home. He traveled 66 miles cross-country, through the snow, to get back to his owner, Mrs. E. R. Adams, of Newton Highlands, Mass.

That was considerable trip for Pekoe, who is small enough to crawl into a gallon jar.

The thing that carried Pekoe to his goal was that he didn't have a human intellect to make him realize the obstacle to be overcome and human imagination to multiply the obstacle many times.

Obstacles are no larger than our imagination makes them

WEALTH

Thomas Baldwin, 94-year-old Long Island hermit, is found dead in his shack. He died in rags, though he had 25 good suits hanging about the walls.

Thomas probably got real satisfaction, contemplating the 25 suits and knowing that he would never want for good clothes.

If he had read Poor Richard's Almanac, by Ben Franklin, he'd have seen this: "Wealth is not his that has
it, but his that enjoys it."
Misers usually forget that money is only a means to an end.

FORD

Henry Ford is understood to have offered to sell his auto company in 1908 to W. C. Durant for $8,000,000 gold. Money was tight. Durant couldn't get the gold. The deal fell through.

Today Ford's cash resources are about $125,000,000, easily converted into gold standard money.

Ford has changed his ideas about gold, also about the wisdom of selling.
He seems to have a guardian angel

OH HOW DRY THEY ARE

Topeka Capitol: City dailies and magazines continually convey the impression to their readers that booze,
or its more poisonous counterparts,
flow like water, notwithstanding prohibition. A searching investigation conducted for months by the Methodist board of temperance and public morals, show a decrease of not less than 85 per cent and possibly more than 90 per cent in the consumption of liquor.

This is an enormous decrease. Two marked results in every city are a large decrease in the number of arrests for drunkenness and a quite noticeable increase in the purchasing power of skilled and unskilled workers notwithstanding much unemployment. And despite the daily reports in the news of persons killed or blinded by the bootleggers' wood alcohol concoctions, there can be no doubt that nowhere near as many men and women are slain by these knockout drops as formerly were slain by the so-called wine, gin and whisky. The truth seems to be that prohibition actually is being well enforced in nine-tenths of the United States and in the remaining one-tenth is sufficiently well enforced to make it a great improvement over the license system.

ness has been better in his industry

MILK HAS VALUES OTHER FOODS CAN'T GIVE

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

Science has long known the value of milk as a food, but it is only in recent years that it has been learned that milk contains health-giving vitamins that cannot be found all together in any other food. It is for this reason that dietitians are advising the use of milk in cooking and preparing foods. It is not only to be used as a drink. There are many easily prepared combinations in which milk and cream may be easily used.

Nutrition clinics are advising that children be given a quart of milk to drink each day. Adults should have at least a pint daily.

Then it is possible through the use of cream soups and creamed vegetables to add to this daily allotment.

Since milk is so healthful because it contains vitamins, the housewife should also consider other foods that are more or less rich in these mysterious little health-giving organisms.
Such vegetables as spinach, carrots and turnips—which are among the cheapest—are the richest in vitamins.

All green vegetables in season are healthful and should be made the basis of at least one meal a day when possible.

Salads, both vegetable and fruit, are exceedingly healthful. Whole wheat bread should be used by the housewife who is considerate of the health of her family.

It has been argued that the Indians were quite healthy although they lived on meat almost exclusively. But such an argument does not take into account the fact that the Indians also consumed the heart, liver, kidney and other parts that are rarely eaten by us. Such parts contain the proper amount of vitamins for a healthy diet.
It is advisable therefore to vary the diet often with liver or sweetbreads
since it has been proved that a man will almost starve on a continuous diet of meat, potatoes and white bread.

FURS

Most any kind of fur 'll
Delight a woman's heart;
There's mink and squirrel,
Expensive, rich and smart;
There's muskrat, seal and sable
And ermine—costly, gay, Worth anything you're able
To pay.

In latest modes Parisian
These fur-clad ladies flit.
They don't offend the vision
A bit.

It's true fur-bearers perish
By millions every year
So that the girls we cherish
In furs may thus appear;
Our hearts are filled with pity
But still this thought occurs—
"Gee, aren't the women pretty

ADVENTURES
OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Burton

"BUSKINS AND THE TWINS"

Pretty soon the Land of Everything looked as orderly as a Sunday School.

The Twins helped Burkins to do all sorts of things up in the queer place in the sky, which we shall now have to call the "Land of Everything." They found all of the stove's fids, scattered far and wide by Whiz-zy Tornado, and put them on; they found the wheel for the wheelbarrow,
but got it on backward and the poor thing always had to go backward after that; they milked the cow and gave the milk to a dry churn that said it was losing its hoops; they tied the washing on the line, emptied the straw, lay cord-wood in neat piles, mended bits of broken fence, and pretty soon the Land of Everything looked as orderly as a Sunday School.

"Well, that's done!" said Burkins,
taking out his book. "Now the next thing is to return all these things to their owners. We have to keep this place pretty well cleared out to make room for the next lot. Whizzy Tornado usually makes several trips a year, and if he doesn't come himself, Howly Hurricane or Curlew Cyclone are sure to be along and they do just as much damage as he does."

"All right," said Nick. "Let's begin."

And so they did. With the magical apple tree elevator and their wonderful Green Shoes, it was amazing how quickly the tornado things were returned to earth. Burkins said that he didn't know how he had ever gotten along before without the children's help. One thing sure, he said, he never could again!

"Are we going on more adventures?" asked Nancy.
"Goodness, yes, child," answered Burkins. "The Land of Up in the Air is a big place. We haven't begun yet. Did you ever hear of the Runaway Feathers?"

MONTHLY PAYMENT OF TAXES URGED BEFORE STATE MAYORS' MEET

Jacksonville Mayor Suggests Easy Payment Scheme.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Urbana, Ill., Jan. 26.—Nothing re-gays so well as taxes.

This unusual assertion was made here today by E. E. Crabtree, non-partisan mayor of Jacksonville, before the assembled mayors and village presidents attending the annual convention of the Illinois Municipal League.

"There is nothing," said Mayor Crabtree, "for which one gets more service rendered than he does for the taxes which he pays. I wish that taxes were payable monthly. A distribution of this kind, like house rent and grocery bills, I think would cause less anxiety to the mind, and taxes would seem proportionately smaller."

"However," Mayor Crabtree continued, "the subject of taxation is one which is giving greater concern each year, and if taxes are to be increased from time to time, as they have been in the last few years, we shall eventually have an uprising of property owners that may prove of serious consequence."

"The peak of high prices has undoubtedly been passed. City and village boards should set the example of attempting to get along with less revenue."

Demand More Service.

"On the other hand the public, like the individual, is demanding additional services from his city. He is insistent that the city will serve in many new capacities. How can cities do this without the money?"

"An educational campaign might be helpful along the line of teaching people that if they wish increased service, the money must be raised from some source, and that the principal source now is taxation, but some adequate field of revenue to supplement the general property tax must be found if we are to get much relief."

"There is nothing for which one gets more service rendered than he does for the taxes which he pays. I wish that taxes were payable monthly. A distribution of this kind, like house rent, grocery bills, etc., I think would cause less anxiety to the mind, because one would not have to look forward to paying a large sum at the close of the year."

Per Capita Costs.

"In studying the question of taxes of my local town, I was anxious to know what it cost per capita to run the city government."

"I found that for the year 1920 the fire department cost sixty-nine cents per capita. The police department seventy cents. The highway department six cents, printing three cents, and so on. Could the citizen look at it in this way his taxes might seem proportionately much smaller."

"It has come to my notice that cemeteries are exempt from taxation. There are many cemeteries in the state of Illinois owned by private persons, or corporations which are doing business purely for profit. I know of no reason why such private organizations should not be taxed the same as any other line of business."

Report 190 Killed 1,000 Hurt in Riot

London, Jan. 26.—(By the Associated Press)—A cable dispatch to the "Evening Star" today from Rome says it is reported there that fresh disorders have broken out in Cairo, Egypt, resulting in 190 persons being killed and more than 1000 others injured. British troops, the message adds, quelled the insurrection.

Thus far no confirmation or denial of the Rome report has reached London.

SENIORS GIVEN REAL DRUBBING BY HARVESTERS

Met Worst Defeat Last Evening on Floor at Rock Falls.

(By Murphy)

The Senior basket ball team was the recipient of a severe drubbing at the hands of the Rock Falls Harvesters club on the Rock Falls high school gym floor last evening the score being 46-26. The Harvesters club is practically the same team that represents the Sterling Y, which the Seniors have defeated on both the Dixon and Sterling Y floors. How then this awful walloping?

Well the loss of the Senior skipper, Palmer, had something to do with it. Palmer's car developed engine trouble and he had to turn back. Then the manager also was absent, the Rock Falls bunch played like fiends, Dixon's guarding was loose and the playing was ragged. That's a good line of alibis, but we can give more is anybody wants to hear them. We always have a lot up our sleeves. In the last quarter the Seniors got going pretty good but too late to do any good. The gang hopes to do better and wipe out the blot Feb. 8 when they play the same team on the Sterling Y floor.

Germans Have Become Cake-Eating People

Berlin.—Germans have become cake eaters as a result of habits formed during the war. Cake making is now a Saturday afternoon community affair. In all the smaller cities, and in every section of Berlin, the housewives carry the cake dough to the community bakery every week-end, and lay in a supply for the following week.

The community bakery was known before 1914, but its use was restricted to baking the cakes for holidays. Every Saturday is a holiday now.

With the increase in the cake-eating habit, the majority of families have dispensed with butter and marmalade, and white or brown bread is nothing but a staple.

CHAPTER IX

Sergeant Barry waited until the ticking, tearless sob had ceased and then he asked quietly:

"What had Miriam Vane to do with your wife, Mr. Griswold?"

Griswold raised his head and the detective had the shock of his career. He had thought that the mention of the dog's foolish pet name had recalled the man's dead wife, and that it was genuine grief which had opened the crusty financier's long-closed heart, whatever his relation to the other woman and his share in the mystery. But it was not resuscitated sorrow which met his amazed eyes; Griswold's thin, cadaverous face had been transformed into that of an exultant fiend and personal fear seemed to be wholly forgotten in the smoldering of the hold which he had held over himself.

"Miriam Vane?" The repetition of the name came with a raucous laugh. "Miriam Vane was my wife, my lawful wife to the hour of her death, and she was too clever to give me an opportunity to free myself from her, at least without the notoriety that she knew I could not afford. It took someone cleverer than she, less cautious than I, to fire that shot last night, and because of it I owe a debt for the first time in my life, a debt of gratitude which even my money can never repay."

Despite the astonishing revelation, Barry did not allow his expression to change, and his tones were suavely persuasive as he suggested:

"Suppose you tell me the whole story, Mr. Griswold. Our knowledge of the truth may enable us to prevent the notoriety you wish to avoid. How long were you married to the woman who called herself Miriam Vane?"

"For twenty years, ever since she was a girl of sixteen and I was a law student of twenty-two down in a little town called Springfield, in Delaware. I've given out these many years that I was a widower because of the disgrace of the whole affair, but it is evident that the truth must be known now and you'd find it out sooner or later."

"Six years our marriage lasted—six years that brought disillusionment to me in spite of her beauty. She was twenty-two, in the full tide of her devilish fascination and knowledge of how to use it when I accepted a clerkship in Cleveland with the law firm of Venner & Scully—he broke off to add:

"Venner had a son, a good looking weakling with a delicate wife who adored him. The chances are that he would never have amounted to anything, anyway, but the minute he laid eyes on Miriam it was all up with him."

He paused again and his bony hands clenched. Barry ventured:

"Do you mean that she broke up their home and yours?"

"I mean that they ran away together and his sickly wife went mad. She died in a sanitarium within a year."

"But why didn't you divorce her, Mr. Griswold?" asked Barry.

"The other grouse that she was out of my life forever. I thought she would divert the way of all such women if the opportunity to rehabilitate herself but marriage with another infatuated fool was denied her."

"He and she were in some out of the way hole in the south, leading a cat-and-dog life, when somehow he learned of his wife's madness and death, and in remorse he blew his brains out!"

So that was the explanation of the empty cartridge shell treasured all these years like the symbol of a ghost that could not be laid; Barry whistled softly and then a sudden question came to his mind.

"Mr. Griswold, you told me a while ago that Mrs. Vane was too clever to give you an opportunity to free yourself legally without notoriety which you could not afford. Surely her elopement with young Venner provided you with evidence enough."

Griswold rose and commenced to pace the floor. "When Venner slipped through her fingers she remembered that she still had a legal claim on me and all her calculating shrewdness came to her aid. When she found me—I was lying ill with typhoid in a Chicago hotel. Men do strange things in delirium and I must have babled her name."

Some fool specialist thought her prostration would pull me through the crisis."

When I awoke to consciousness she was in full command and I was too weak to do anything. In the eyes of the law I had condoned her offense."

The sergeant nodded and Griswold resumed:

"It was sheer blackmail. I met her terms a quarterly allowance on condition that she change her name and leave the country."

He halted in his restless pacing and when he spoke again it was with his face averted from the detective.

"Last October the janitor brought a note up to me, and I found that she had had the impudence not only to break our agreement by returning to America but had actually domiciled herself beneath the same room and insisted that it was I who had first broken our agreement by stopping her allowance, and I must come down to her at once for a personal interview."

"I went and then began a series of persecutions which did not cease until last night. She not only demanded an outrageous income but forced me to call upon her at regular intervals, on pain of announcing herself as my wife and raking up that whole wretched scandal I had so carefully lived down."

"I thought when that young fool Gordon Ladd appeared on the scene it might make a difference but she was too infernally clever. Yesterday she demanded a further increase in her allowance and it was the last straw."

"Early in the evening I went down to tell her that I had reached the end and would do no more but she defied me laughingly. I left her in a rage and as I ascended the stair to my own apartments here I distinctly saw young Ladd mounting from his. Understand, Sergeant, I am not trying to cast suspicion on him, I am merely giving you facts and if she has played fast and loose with him, many other and more reckless men than he appear to have lost their heads over her in Europe, as any foreign agents have kept me informed, since that old Venner affair in Cleveland."

"I'm!" Barry exclaimed thoughtfully. "Speaking of that case, Mr. Griswold, did that misguided young man have any relatives except his father?"

"No. When old Venner died about five years ago he left all his money to his law partner, Scully."

"And young Mrs. Venner, the one who died insane, who were her people? What was her maiden name?"

"I don't know. She met young Venner while visiting some school friend, but on that point my memory on the fire escape for some little time before Boyle appeared on his rounds, he must still after the crime have ascended instead of going down to the street level and where could he have gone? It has been proved that the roof offered no means of shelter. I can vouch for Professor Semynove and Miss Shaw was in her studio at the time, so there remains only your apartment."

CHAPTER X

The venerable house which had once held the law offices of Venner & Scully had long since given place to a modern business block.

Fourteen years was indeed a long time, as Griswold had said, but Scully would surely recall the details of the tragedy which had made him his partner's heir. However, when Sergeant Barry had run the gamut of stenographers and found himself behind the door marked "Philip Scully—Private," he saw confronting him a well-groomed young man who obviously had not reached the age of 30.

The young man arose and extended an affable hand.

"Mr. Barry? What can I do for you, sir?"

He paused as Barry shook his head. "I'm afraid I've made a mistake. I've come well recommended, but it was to another Mr. Scully, a law partner of the late Mr. Venner."

"Indeed! I take it that you are a stranger here, Mr. Barry. You are referring to my father, Daniel Scully, but he gave up active practice some five years ago. I took his place."

"There are some things from which a man cannot retire," Barry interrupted. "I come well recommended—by the district attorney of New York City."

Members Negro Band Beaten and Exiled

Miami, Fla., Jan. 25.—Six members of Howard's "Whispering Orchestra of Gold" of Columbus, O., (negroes) which had been playing at a local hotel, were taken to the outskirts of the city early today, severely beaten by a band of men and told to leave within 24 hours.

The leader of the orchestra early last night received a telephone call asking him to play at the new country home of "Mr. James." At midnight a car called for them at the hotel. Five miles outside the city it was surrounded by a band of 75 men and the flogging followed.

"Great Heavens!" gasped Griswold. "You know I'm innocent, Sergeant. For if I'd meant to put her out of the way I could have done so long ago and saved the thousands upon thousands that she has wrung from me."

"That vacant house is out of the question unless someone broke in for the only keys to it are in my office and my clerk can testify that they have remained undisturbed for months in a strong box under his charge. If some one had not concealed himself in her studio itself during her absence for dinner there remains only the fire escape."

"No one could have come up the fire escape without being seen by Policeman Boyle, who stood just below; that had been established," Barry added, still with deliberate intent: "Suppose he had been concealed

A. BARTON HEPBURN, NOTED FINANCIER IS DEAD RESULT MISHAP

Well Known Author and Economist Passed Away This Morn.

New York, Jan. 25.—A. Barton Hepburn, financier, author and economist, died here this morning. On Friday he was struck by a bus, and suffered a compound fracture of his right leg, but at the time attending physicians did not believe his injuries were of a dangerous character. Later, however, Mr. Hepburn's condition underwent a change for the worse, becoming critical yesterday morning.

Alonzo Barton Hepburn was known, not only as a banker and financier but as an economist of note. In early life he figured to some extent in New York state politics.

Born in Colton, N. Y., July 24, 1846, he was graduated from Middlebury college. He began his career as instructor of mathematics at St. Lawrence Academy and soon became principal of the Ogdensburg Educational Institute which he left after a short time to practice law in Colton, the place of his birth.

In 1875 he was elected to the state assembly where he served until 1880. Later he became Superintendent of the Banking Department of New York state, state bank examiner and state comptroller of currency.

After retiring from active politics he went to New York city where he became associated with several of the largest business corporations in the country. He served as a director on the boards of the Banker's Trust Co., First National Bank, Woolworth Co., American Car & Foundry Co., Sears Roebuck & Co., and many others.

He was successively president of the Third National Bank, vice president of the National City Bank and President of the Chase National Bank.

Had Other Interests.

Mr. Hepburn was a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation and a member of the New York City Chamber of Commerce, the Pilgrims, the Academy of Political Science, the Japan Society, National Geographic Society, Metropolitan Museum of Art and a member of the Museum of Natural History.

He always maintained an active interest in international affairs, especially in American-Japanese relations and in 1918 gave funds to the University of Tokyo to establish a chair for the study of the history and constitution of the United States. He was made an officer of the Legion of Honor by the French government in 1913, for his share in a reception in New York to French official visitors. In the year following the world war he was appointed chairman of a committee to aid German children.

Mr. Hepburn was author of many magazine and review essays on economics and finance and published two books, "The History of Coinage and Currency," and "Artificial Waterways and Commercial Development." He was chairman of the currency committee of the American Bankers' Association from the time of its organization. He was a member of many leading clubs.

In 1873 he married Miss Hattie Fisher of St. Albans, Vt., who died several years later. In 1887 he remarried, taking for his wife, Miss Emily H. Eaton, of Montpelier, Vt. They made their home in New York city for many years and had a country house at Ridgefield, Conn.
